ABOUT ME

I'm Nikul Suthar, a B.Tech Cybersecurity student with a strong interest in Cybersecurity, Open Source Intelligence (OSINT), and real-world threat detection. Rather than only learning tools, I focus on understanding how cyber threats actually work – from social engineering scams and phishing attacks to data breaches – and developing practical, intelligence-driven approaches to identify and prevent them. I actively explore ethical hacking, threat analysis, and cybercrime investigation, applying OSINT techniques and security tools to analyze digital threats. I have also developed awareness-focused tools such as the Fake Job Offer Analyzer, designed to help people detect scam patterns using public data and logic-based analysis, even without advanced coding. My goal is to build solutions that create real-world impact by improving cyber awareness and strengthening digital security.
